HEALTHY AGING PRIZE for Asian INNOVATION

Request for Nominations and Applications

Healthy Aging Prize for Asian Innovation

Rapid population aging is emerging as one of the greatest long-term challenges for the future of Asia, requiring innovative approaches from both the public and private sectors to address the wide range of policy and practical issues that this shift entails. The inaugural Healthy Aging Prize for Asian Innovation (HAPI) will recognize innovative policies, services, and products from Asia that address the challenges facing aging societies, help extend healthy and meaningful lives, and/or improve the provision of care to older adults.

Submission Period

January 13–March 6, 2020

Apply for your own organization or nominate another organization

Award Categories

Technology & Innovation

Community-Based Initiatives

Supporting Self-Reliance

The Healthy Aging Prize for Asian Innovation is an initiative of the Economic Research Institute for ASEAN and East Asia (ERIA) and the Japan Center for International Exchange (JCIE), under the auspices of the Japanese government's Asia Health and Wellbeing Initiative (AHWIN).

To learn more or apply: www.ahwin.org/award

HEALTHY AGING PRIZE for Asian INNOVATION

Award Categories

Technology & Innovation

New technologies and techniques that encourage healthy and productive aging, that improve the way that older persons receive care, or that provide greater efficiency, safety, and/or convenience for older persons and caregivers

Community-Based Initiatives

Community-based approaches—including inter-generational approaches—to keeping older adults healthy, active, engaged, and/or safe

Supporting Self-Reliance

New ways to help older adults maintain, improve, or restore physical and mental functions, that assist them and their caregivers as those functions deteriorate, or that build resilience

Eligibility

Eligible innovations include policies, programs, services, and products implemented by community organizations, nonprofit organizations, research institutions, local governments, private businesses, public-private partnerships, and social businesses based in an ASEAN member country or in China, Japan, or South Korea.

*See website for further details and requirements

Award

One Grand Prize will be selected in each category, and additional finalists will be selected as Honorable Mention awardees. All Grand Prize and Honorable Mention recipients will be showcased on the AHWIN website.

Grand Prize winners will be honored at the 2020 AHWIN Forum and invited to present their work to top leaders from around the region. The Grand Prize award includes travel and accommodations for one representative to attend the Forum.

To learn more or apply,
visit www.ahwin.org/award to download the form.

Deadline: March 6, 2020

ERIA JCIE AHWIN