This report was prepared by the Working Group for Distributed Energy System (DES) in ASEAN under the Energy Project of the Economic Research Institute for ASEAN and East Asia (ERIA). Members of the Working Group, who were selected from ASEAN, discussed and agreed to certain key assumptions of DES as a basis for writing this report. This aimed to harmonise the forecasting techniques of the future growth of DES. Therefore, the projections presented here should not be viewed as official national projections of participating countries.
