

Acknowledgements

This analysis was conducted by a study team from the Institute of Energy Economics, Japan. I would like to acknowledge the support provided by everyone involved including Zaharin Zulkifli from the Energy Commission of Malaysia who conducted the scenario analysis in Chapter 4. I also would like to express our gratitude to the workshop participants from Malaysia and Japan for their useful input. Special thanks go to the speakers in the workshops – representatives from the Ministry of Transport (Malaysia), Land Public Transport Commission (Malaysia), Malaysia Automotive Institute (Malaysia), Tohoku University (Japan), Wako University (Japan), NEC Corporation (Japan), Toyota Motor Corporation (Japan), Japan Automotive Manufacturers Association, Inc. (Japan), and Japan Automobile Research Institute (Japan). Special thanks also go to officials of the Ministry of Energy, Green Technology and Water, Malaysia (KeTTHA) for hosting and supporting the organisation of the workshops.
